

Applying for the First Time?

If you are a first-time applicant for a Statewide Community Regrant (formerly known as Decentralization or DEC), this guide may be helpful when completing your application. All questions should be directed to Brian H. Lee, Regrants Program Officer, at blee@cnyarts.org.

Step One:

Register in our application portal. Whether you're an individual artist or you represent an organization planning to apply for a CNY Arts grant for the first time, you must first register at cnyarts.submittable.com.

Please note: You must set up a Submittable account using an active email address. All applications, contracts, and other communications sent through Submittable will deliver to this email address.

Step Two:

Carefully read the grant guidelines. You should read the Statewide Community Regrants (SCR) Guidelines for 2022 and decide which grant best fits your project's needs.

There are three different grants under SCR: the Community Arts Grant (CAG), the Individual Artist Commission (IAC), and the Arts Education Grant (AEG). All three are designed to support a discrete, unique project. Funds should be used towards artist compensation, rental fees, administrative costs, supplies, etc. Look out for ineligible expenses!

Step Three:

Attend an Application Seminar or Webinar.

At this seminar, you will meet the Regrants Program Officer and learn all the fine details of the SCR Program. The Regrants Program Officer will also answer any questions you have about the application process, what sorts of projects are eligible, and how to write a strong application.

Step Four:

Assemble your application! The application will ask you to describe your project narratively. Your detailed responses to these narrative questions are the most important parts of your application. However, there are a number of documents that are required to complete your application. First, you will need to provide Bios, CVs, or Résumés of the key artists and personnel involved with your project. You will also need to complete a Project Budget Form and provide a list of project locations and venues.

Though optional, you should also gather letters showing support for your project from representatives of your community and compile a portfolio of your past works that demonstrates your creativity, service to the public, and ability to complete your project.

Next, you will need a number of documents specific to each grant. Here is a breakdown by grant:

For CAG, you will need...

Once you've submitted your application, it will be sent to our peer review panel who will determine funding decisions. If the panel does not award your project this year, you should reach out to the Re-grants Program Officer for panel notes so that your future applications pass. If the panel awards your project, congratulations! The following steps are for you.

Step Five:

Sign the funding contract. The Funding Agreement will ask you to agree to standard terms and conditions. You'll also need to provide a new IRS Form W-9 so that your check can be properly disbursed. If you applied with a Fiscal Sponsor, this will be their responsibility.

Step Six:

Spend the grant funds. The funds are yours and should be used to pay for all the expenses you laid out in your project budget form. Look out for ineligible expenses! If you do not use the full amount of your grant, those funds will need to be returned to CNY Arts.

Step Seven:

Make your project happen! As per the terms of the funding agreement, you should invite CNY Arts to attend your project or event. You should also share all related press, publicity, programs, websites, etc. All materials will need to include proper crediting language and the CNY Arts logo.

Step Eight:

Submit your final report. Once your project has completed, you have 30 days to submit a final report to tell us how everything went. Applicants with outstanding final reports from previous years are ineligible for future funding!

Step Nine:

Apply again next year!

Step Ten:

Volunteer to serve as a future Panelist. This step is optional, of course, but as a recent applicant, you will have a fresh, relevant insight into the application process that will be of tremendous value during the peer review panel process.
